Badly Burned They
May Not Live.

SHEET OF FLAMES TRAPS 400 MINERS

All Bodies Are Recovered
And Living Released
From Peril.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 23.—The death list in the Dolomite mine mounted to 82, according to latest figures available at the scene of the explosion, 13 miles from Birmingham. One-third of those killed were negroes. They were employed in Dolomite mine No. 3 of the Woodward Coal company.

Sixty others are in hospitals, some of them so badly burned or injured by flying debris that they may not recover.

All of the bodies have been recovered and all those not killed by the blast have been freed from the underground prison, it was stated early today by officials of the company.

It has been definitely established that the explosion was caused when a "skip" car, breaking away, dashed down the mine slope and crashed through electric cables, causing an electric spark which ignited the dust in the mine.

Instantly the entire mine was enveloped in a sheet of flame that blazed upward through the shaft, at least 200 feet into the air, and ignited the tips. All men working near mouth of the mine, it was said, were killed outright.

Rescue Work Is Rapid
The No. 3 shaft is a new opening into the old No. 2 and it was through the old shaft that mine rescue workers were able quickly to dig through debris, choking the passages and bringing out men who otherwise must have died in the gas. The work of rescue was very rapid.

Crowds of curious gathered almost instantly after the explosion and continued to arrive in such large numbers that the National Guardsmen were called out to throw a cordon about the mine mouth and open lanes for ambulances. They still were on guard this morning.

All bodies have been taken to Bessemer, Ala., in the heart of the steel manufacturing district and have been placed in morgues, where many of them still await identification. Officials of the company said they probably would not be able to complete a list of the dead today.

Officials of the Woodward Coal company said today that 475 men entered the shaft yesterday morning, but owing to the fact that miners are constantly leaving and re-entering the workings all through the day, there was no way of telling exactly how many men might have been caught by the blast. They estimated, however, that the number was near 400. They were positive in assertions that all living and dead have been removed to the surface.

Woman Stands Over Body Holding Pistol

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Michael Sciotino, head of M. Sciotino company, shellers of nuts, was shot five times through the head and killed, apparently, by Mrs. Dominic Sciotino, his sister-in-law, in the basement of their home here today.

Police found the woman standing over Sciotino's body, a smoking revolver from which five shots had been fired in her hand. The dead man's hand clutched a knife. The woman, too hysterical to explain, was arrested.

Legislature To Get Line On City Needs

Columbus, Nov. 23.—County auditors throughout Ohio have been asked to furnish the state tax commission with a complete report relative to special tax levies and bond issues voted on at the election Nov. 7 last, and to give the result of the vote.

This information will be turned over to the state legislature when it convenes here in February and will aid the legislators in passing upon requests from the various taxing districts for financial relief.

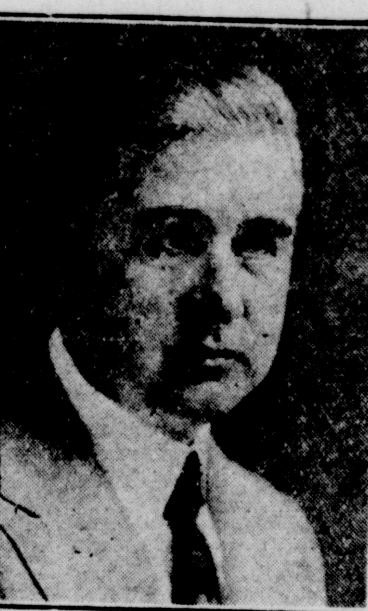

Turks Attempting To Usurp Authority

Constantinople, Nov. 23.—The situation in Constantinople took another serious turn today when General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief, served a warning upon the Turkish governor that the Turks must cease at once their efforts to usurp allied authority.

The governor said he would have to consult with the Ankara government before making an answer.

RECREATION CLUB TO CONTINUE WORK OF PLAY INSTITUTE

Miss Esther Silver Heads Club; Institute Will Close Tonight.

Two weeks activities of the Salem Play Institute will close Thursday night and rather than discontinue the pleasure gained through these get-together meetings those registered in the institute voted to organize a Community Service Recreational club when they assembled at the High school gymnasium Wednesday night.

Resolutions and a constitution for the recreation club were accepted as drawn by Miss Sophie Fishback who opened the play institute in Salem and these officers were elected to serve for a period of one year: President, Miss Esther Silver; first vice president, Warren W. Brown; second vice president, J. M. Smith; secretary, Richard Hutcheson; treasurer, Miss Freda Smith.

The club was organized to promote a better fellowship among the residents of Salem, to provide leadership in community or group entertainments, to stimulate interest in music, drama and all lines of social work.

The board of education has agreed to rent the high school gymnasium to the club for two meetings a month, the first and third Mondays, the first meeting to be at 8 p. m. Monday, Dec. 4.

Every registered member of the institute is asked to be at the high school promptly at 7 p. m. Thursday for the final meeting of the play institute. Local people will direct each number and the public is invited to view this program. No one under 19 years of age will be admitted to the gymnasium.

POTTERS REJECT PEACE PROFFER

Potters out on strike since Oct. 1 have rejected two proposals made by the manufacturers, the decision having been reached late Wednesday.

Manufacturers asked that the men return to work at once with the agreement that on Jan. 15 or Feb. 1 another conference of manufacturers and Brotherhood officials would be held to consider a wage increase to be granted on a basis of an increase of 5 per cent or more in living costs since Aug. 1, 1921, if such an increase could be found.

The other proposal was that the men return at once and that the wage be increased if the manufacturers found conditions justified an increase in the price of general ware. The men refused to call a referendum on these proposals.

Mayor John W. Post was not missing a thing during the liquor raids in the downtown section Wednesday afternoon. He was one of the first on the scene on two occasions but merely as an interested spectator. He offered neither help nor criticism.

Booze of all kinds, colors and tastes was on hand after the raids. Some of the official "testers" at the preliminary hearings varied in their exact diagnosis of the specimens. "Varnish" said one, "ether," said another, "anything but whiskey" said a third.

Immediately following the raids Chief of Police T. W. Thompson re-fused Earl Ritchie, acting merchants' police, or his key to the city hall door. No explanation was offered. Ritchie was simply ordered to turn the key over. He did without protest.

London, Nov. 23.—Announcement in Paris by Georges Leygues, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the French chamber of deputies, that France would reject the Washington conference pact for limitations of naval armaments, caused a sensation in British official circles today.

Keller Must Be Calm

Washington, Nov. 23.—Congressman Oscar E. Keller, Republican of Minnesota, must be more specific in his impeachment charges against Attorney-General Daugherty, the house judiciary committee decided in a resolution adopted unanimously today.

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—Married women are barred henceforth from the staff of the Cincinnati public library as the result of a stormy session of the board of trustees. Those who are employed at the present time will retain their positions, but other married women will not be hired in the future.

Members of the squad of prohibition agents, most of them with wide experience in their line of work, were out in their praise of the way Ritchie handled himself during the afternoon's work. His quick work in jumping over the bar at Captain's and preventing the loss of valuable evidence was especially commended by officials of the party.

"Hootch" was not the only thing confiscated when the raiders visited the Eagles club. Five gambling machines known to the profession as "cash registers" were also taken along as evidence of law violation. Separate charges will be filed against club officials in regard to the machines, it was announced.

6 BANDITS WRECK BANK, $4,000 GONE

Three Men Wounded When
Bandits, Caught, Set Off Nitro.

Galla'n, Mo., Nov. 23.—Three men are seriously wounded, the First National bank here is wrecked, telephone and telegraph wires are all out and $4,000 is missing from the bank safe here as the result of activities early today of six desperate bandit robbers.

The bandits were discovered at work by John Chamberlain, town marshal at 4 o'clock, while robbing the safe. Binding him, the bandits set off two powerful explosions of nitroglycerin wrecking the bank.

INSANE PATIENTS FIGHT 25 GUARDS

Lima, Nov. 23.—Criminally insane patients led by Herschell G. Dunn, convicted of the robbery of the Bassinger and Dunn jewelry store here some years ago, fought a pitched battle with guards in Ward 15 on the second floor of the main building of Lima State hospital on the northern outskirts of Lima today.

A platoon of 25 attendants fought for more than half an hour with their fists against 36 patients before the latter were finally subdued.

Metal slugs stripped from the laboratory equipment were used by the patients in the fray.

Married Women Lose Place In Library

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—Married women are barred henceforth from the staff of the Cincinnati public library as the result of a stormy session of the board of trustees. Those who are employed at the present time will retain their positions, but other married women will not be hired in the future.

The private investigators connected with the liquor raids Wednesday did not confine their activities to booze sellers but spent considerable time in clearing up other phases of the situation in Salem.

Following the completion of the raids Wednesday evening this announcement was made by the operatives in charge of the situation: "Search of the dwelling places located at 243 Broadway, a home in the alley near Railroad st and the Union hotel established beyond every reasonable doubt that these places are used as houses of ill fame."

It was also stated that these places named have been flourishing in Salem for some time and that no effort has been made to stamp them out, but rather that they have been encouraged in certain quarters of the city.

Mayor Denies Any Interference With Liquor Raid Here

"If I interfered with prohibition officers in their liquor raids here Wednesday afternoon, I did it unintentionally," declared Mayor John W. Post Thursday morning when the report came to his attention that he had been accused of interfering.

The mayor declared he was innocent of any action that might have been considered interference. He said he had driven to a blacksmith shop to get some repairs for his auto and then proceeded to a garage returning directly to his office.

Greb To Meet Tunney

New York, Nov. 23.—A return 15-round bout between Harry Greb, American light-weight champion, and Gene Tunney, former champion, has been arranged for Madison Square Garden on Dec. 23.

Despite crowded conditions at the temporary "jail" there was not a single attempt to escape nor were there any complaints registered as to treatment accorded the prisoners. Good humor prevailed during the entire affair and smiles seemed the order of the day even among the prisoners.

A peculiar coincidence of the afternoon was the fact that nearly one half of the list of prisoners secured in the raids are old offenders. Some made the second offense for some while the third time was the charm for others. A more severe penalty is provided for the second offense.

Only One Pleads Guilty As East Palestine Mayor Holds Court Outside The City Limits—Eagles Club Is Raided.

Swooping down upon almost every squad and only timely intervention by other members of the party prevented a real fight. It was some time before peace was restored and the search of the place continued.

Places Tipped Off
Officials in charge of the raids also declared that their work was hampered considerably due to the fact that a number of the suspected places had been "tipped off" to the impending raids shortly before they actually took place.

It is expected that charges will be filed against a number of Salem residents whose names were furnished prohibition officials, and who are alleged to have been implicated in forming the suspected parties.

It was also stated by members of the raiding squads who were busy in the downtown district that the action of Mayor John W. Post in driving in front of one of the machines transporting officials to a Main st establishment delayed their work considerably. They declared that on two occasions collisions with the mayor's car were narrowly averted.

LOCAL MEN AID
Included in the prohibition agents here were men from the office of Prohibition Commissioner Don V. Parkers at Columbus, district headquarters in Cleveland, Dayton and Canton, and deputized officers from East Palestine in addition to Chief of Police W. H. Warren of East Palestine and Salem residents who were sworn in for special service by Mayor Ferren.

Eight local residents volunteered their services in helping to stage the clean-up. As fast as prisoners were taken they were removed to the scene of each of the raiding parties.

The state was represented in court by T. B. Jarvis, of Columbus, general counsel for the Ohio Anti-Saloon league. His headquarters are in Dayton but he came to Salem at the request of state prohibition officials to prosecute the cases. He was assisted by Attorney J. Y. Hilton of Canton district counsel for the Anti-Saloon league.

TRIALS SET FOR DEC. 5
These attorneys will prosecute the cases when they come to trial Tuesday, Dec. 5, in Mayor Ferren's court at East Palestine.

The raiding squads first visited the downtown district, making one of the first arrests at 22 Main st, almost opposite the police station, where George and Steve Neago were taken into custody charged with selling liquor. The former was also charged with keeping a place where liquor was sold.

The arrests of James and Steve Cosgara at the Union hotel; Louie Julian and John Cosgrove at 114 Broadway; Fritz Kremer and Adolph Kueneman at 35 Roosevelt ave followed in quick succession. All were charged with selling liquor while Kremer and Julian were charged with keeping places where intoxicating liquor was sold illegally.

EAGLES CLUB RAIDED
Three cases of alleged bonded whiskey were confiscated when the raiders visited the home of Jesse Shaffer, who lives on the second floor of the building at the corner of Roosevelt and Ellsworth ave. Shaffer was charged with both selling and possessing liquor illegally.

Seven quarts of whisky and 15 jugs of wine were the result of a visit to the home of Thomas Cadwallader, 470 McKinley ave. Cadwallader is alleged to have sold wine for 33 cents a quart. He will be arraigned before Mayor Ferren Thursday.

Following the completion of the raids in the various sections of the city a squad of 12 men visited the club rooms of Quaker City aerie No. 316, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Main st, where it was necessary to use force to gain entrance.

A small quantity of whisky was confiscated, also a sign which hung over the door when they entered in order to "play safe."

Herbert Pealy, secretary of the lodge, was arrested charged with keeping a place where intoxicating liquor was sold, while Harry Wickline and Norman DeRhodes, both employees of the club, were taken into custody on charges of selling liquor illegally.

OPPOSITION ENCOUNTERED
Considerable opposition was encountered in several of the places raided, according to report of officials. A free-for-all battle ensued when the raiders visited the establishment of Sol Caplin, 41 Broadway. They were just in time to prevent Mrs. Caplin from destroying a quantity of "hootch" which she was attempting to pour into a sink.

Quick work on the part of Special Officer Earl Ritchie and Prohibition Agent A. Asquith resulted in saving a considerable quantity of the liquor but only after the woman had put up a lively battle during which lists were brought into play.

Another battle developed when the raiding party visited the Fritz Kremer establishment at 35 Roosevelt ave. Here Mrs. Kremer attempted to choke one of the members of the

A squad of officers in charge of Chief of Police W. H. Warren of East Palestine were raiding business establishments at 2:45 p. m. Thursday. Numerous punch boards and slot machines, known as "cash registers" had been confiscated and owners of places in which they were found notified to appear before Mayor Albert W. Ferren at East Palestine Friday.

Henry Ford Philosophy
HENRY FORD continues to overrule the prophets of the old philosophy. In Boston he casually reversed Ben Franklin and other accepted apostles of thrift in youth by urging young men to spend their money and get all the experience they can.
"Don't try to save money and be a miser," he said. "Give me the man of 40 who has had lots of experience. I was about 38 or 39 before I began to think very much about making money."

The Detroit automobile manufacturer expounds a novel and interesting theory of success in life. But is it not an ex-post-facto philosophy? Mr. Ford's money-making began late because it took him a good while to upset the patents which stood in the way of his manufacturing a cheap automobile for millions of consumers.
If as an impecunious young mechanic with an idea he had had the opportunity to market his car would he have waited 10 years or so before trying to get results? Precepts do not alter human nature, and the rule will doubtless hold with most young men of taking the profit and letting the experience go.
Nevertheless, it is satisfactory to have an encouraging word spoken to the man who has reached 40 without achieving success. He need not necessarily hope to become a Henry Ford or a U. S. Grant, but he still has an excellent chance by the testimony of the automobile philosopher, whose confidence in him is in agreeable contrast with most pessimism on the subject.

"Spank The Parents"
REV. GEORGE C. STEWART of Chicago, proposes as a remedy to cure puppy love and delinquency in youngsters of both sexes the public spanking of their parents.
"What these children need is a good old-fashioned spanking, and the same correction should be handed out to their parents," says Rev. Mr. Stewart.
Not a bad idea. But what the minister really means is that the proper care and instruction of children is the chief duty of parents, that home is the place to teach sex, where example and not precept is essential to the successful culture of the young.
The news columns recently reported the elopement of a sextet of young folk bent upon enjoying the experience of trial marriage. All of them were in the neighborhood of 16 years of age. They certainly would have been benefited by the public application of a shingle to the seat of sensation so invariably selected by our old-fashioned forerunners. It is quite likely, too, that if their parents at the same time, and in the same manner, could have suffered such humiliating and painful experience the result would have been salutary and permanent good effect.
Love and knowledge must go hand in hand in the proper rearing of boys and girls. In the right kind of a home, where these virtues work for the salvation of the rising generations, it is not often that a boy or girl goes wrong, or becomes enamored of false aspects of life.

Relics of Long-Past Age.
A large copper kettle and other relics of a past age, believed by students of archeology to have been buried 1,000 years, were unearthed recently by Dr. H. C. Myers, professor of chemistry at Whitworth college, Spokane, Wash., a few miles north of the city, where some road excavating was being done.
"With the copper kettle," said Doctor Myers, "was the skull of an Indian, wrapped in a piece of buffalo skin. The copper was so old it had changed to copper carbonate. This chemical compound had been absorbed by the skull, and it had served as a preservative. A buckskin shirt also was found in the kettle. A few beads and some wampum also were secured from the excavation."

"Hopeless."
She can do about as she pleases, this little mite of six summers. While her Aunt Ellen heartily disapproves of such "goings on" and never fails to give some well-meant advice, even she cannot always suppress a smile. The assertive young person was playing her mother's expensive victrola and as the golden notes of Mine, Galli-Curci's voice poured forth in her famous "Dinorah" record, remarked: "Say, Aunt Ellen, how can she sing like that?" Aunt Ellen thought this a fitting occasion on which to appeal to the child's better nature and told her that God had bestowed this great gift upon the singer at birth, under the tutelage of famous masters, it had been brought to its present power. Expecting some sweet childish response, she was completely taken off her guard at hearing her young relative rejoin: "Gee, God gave me some dizzy voice!"

His First Wife's Legacy

By MYRA CURTIS LANE

"It's all very well to say I ought to share your interests, Lucian, but do I ask you to share mine? Has it occurred to you that a woman's interests must consist principally in running a home?"

Mary Ammering faced her husband, flushed and indignant, with the heat of the kitchen stove reflected on her pretty face.

"I suppose you're right, Mary," answered Lucian Ammering indifferently.

He kissed her good-by—he hated those formal kisses. They had been married two years now, and things had gone steadily from bad to worse.

Lucian Ammering was an inventor; he was at work on a glider that was to revolutionize the science of flight; Mary had never understood it. She resented their having to live in the country, where he leased fifty acres of mountainous tract a long way from where people ought to live.

At first she had been enthusiastic. What had married her? Well, Lucian had been married years before. Emmeline and he, she gathered, had been devoted to each other. When Emmeline died Lucian's life had seemed broken.

Mary was jealous of the dead woman. She believed that Emmeline still had his heart. He never spoke of her, but Mary knew that in his mind he was always setting off the one woman against the other.

So she had sunk quietly into the position of housekeeper, and Lucian had gone on experimenting with his gliders.

She felt restless that morning as she dusted and scrubbed, and opened the oven and put things in it, and took them out again. She had declared her independence. She wasn't going to be tied to the tail of Lucian's gliders.

"I guess now that I'm committed to my job I'll just go upstairs and clean out that old cupboard of Lucian's that hasn't been touched since we moved in here," she reflected.

It was an old house and had enormous cupboards. This one was more like a small room. Mary recoiled in dismay at the first sight of it, with disused garments hanging up everywhere, and the floor littered with papers.

Then she collected herself and began to tidy up, taking down and dusting Lucian's old clothes. This suit should never have been thrown away. It was just what Lucian needed for his gliding. And these boots—how careless Lucian was! They were perfectly good boots. She must put those in his room. And this package of letters—

Curiosity, the bane of woman, got the better of her. She opened the top one and read, folded back, the signature "Emmeline."

And a burning desire came over her to know what sort of letters Emmeline had written Lucian. Emmeline, the model wife, she sarcastically commented in her mind.

But to her amazement the letter was full of bitter reproaches.

She opened another and another. All were alike. It appeared that, instead of the ideal life which Mary had always supposed them to have shared, they had hated and quarreled with each other constantly. There had never been peace between them.

It was the last letter that summed up everything.

"I realize too well my deficiencies, Lucian," Emmeline wrote. "I am leaving you tomorrow with Harry, and you will be free to get your divorce. I ask nothing of you. I do not blame you; we have simply been unfortunate."

"But I do gather one thing from our experience of married life together. Either the pair must share their interests in common, or else there will be shipwreck. And, as a man cannot enter with enthusiasm into the interests of the kitchen, it behooves the woman to make her husband's life and career her own."

"I understand where I have erred. If things had not gone so far I would begin all over again. It is too late now. But, if you marry again, try to teach your wife that lesson, Good-by."

Mary stared at the letter. For a few moments she did not take it all in. Emmeline—divorced—then Lucian had not cared for her. He had cared for herself. And it was not too late—the message from the woman who had gone out of Lucian's life had arrived just in time.

Softly Mary went to her room. She put on an old dress, high boots, her slouchiest hat. An hour later she was at Lucian's door.

"Well, I've finished my work," she said. "And I'm sorry that I was cross this morning. Lucian, dear, let's go down to the shed, and you shall show me your new glider."

Sorely Stricken.

"Mr. Johnson," said the head of the firm, "didn't you tell me there was a death in your family and didn't I extend my sympathy and tell you to take a day off for the funeral?"

"You did, sir."

"I learn that not only are all the members of your family well, but you attended a football game."

"It was a little puppy, sir. I was much attached to the affectionate creature and I speak truly when I say it was not until the second half that I could forget my sorrow and take an interest in the game."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"Human Hearts" Is Mirror of Life

Life passes in emotional review in "Human Hearts." The Universal-Jewel picture starring House Peters at Royal theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a human drama with its greatness hidden in its simplicity.

Nothing in it is complicated, any more than the human soul is complicated. The story is based on the simple occurrence of certain events in logical order, caused by the impingement of natural forces. There is no straining after great dramatic climaxes, yet they are there.

House Peters achieves another notable success to add to his long list of polished portrayals as a film star. He impersonates Tom Logan, the blacksmith hero whose heart is too simple to be capable of suspicion.

"Human Hearts" is based on the perennial stage favorite of that name which ruled the American play world for many years.

King Ragot, who played the leading male role in the first screen version eight years ago, directed this production. 276h

TIGHT WRIST WATCH WARNING

Neuritis in the Fingers and Hands Has Been Traced to the Pressure on Nerves.

Be careful not to bind the strap of your wrist watch too tight. Several cases of neuritis in the fingers and hands have been traced to this cause. Dr. John S. Stophord tells in the Lancet of a student who experienced tingling pains along the inner borders of the hand and in the little finger. These and persisted for some time and caused discomfort and anxiety. On examination a tender point was discovered on the dorsal surface of the styloid process of the ulna, and pressure in this situation caused pain to radiate from this point into the dorsal cutaneous branch of the ulnar nerve. There was no sign of paresis or atrophy of any of the intrinsic muscles of the hand, nor were any trophic changes found. On investigating a cause for this localized neuritis the only possibility appeared to be the wearing of a tight wristlet watch, which clearly could produce compression of the dorsal cutaneous branch of the ulnar nerve as it curved round the lower extremity of the ulna. On discarding the wristlet the discomfort gradually disappeared.

authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the sure conquerer of rheumatism does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suggested the treatment of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers his worst of all diseases, and he is instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. All druggists can supply you.

Hair Dressing.

In France women are dressing the hair to make the head look as small as possible. The locks are pulled straight back and coiled at the neck with the greatest simplicity. There is a tendency over there to keep the outline of the head small, by the hair is arranged softly about the face. This is much more flattering to the average woman.

Fine for Pyorrhea Tender, Bleeding Gums and Loose Teeth

Is Praised by Thousands Who Were Told This Dread Disease Was Incurable

Pyorrhea or Kigg's disease means loosened, sensitive teeth with tender, bleeding, receding gums. Every sufferer will be glad to know that at last a Rochester, N. Y., dentist has found a cure. This preparation—to which the name MOAVA DENTAL CREAM has been given and must not be confounded with ordinary tooth paste—can now be obtained at any first class drug store.

So speedily does it destroy the germs that cause Pyorrhea, tighten up loose teeth, heal the tender gums, reuniting the gums firmly to the teeth that professional men are simply astounded.

The very first application will prove of benefit and used steadily for a few weeks the gums will grow healthy and the teeth become firm in their sockets. The J. H. Lease Drug Co., can supply you.

Fur Animals Increase in Kentucky.

Fur-bearing animals are on the increase in Kentucky as a result of the protection afforded by the state game law. The raccoon, opossum, mink, weasel, otter and muskrat are reported in larger numbers by trappers who in the open season collect the skins in paying quantities. Until adequate protection was afforded by the drastic game law some of the species had almost disappeared from Kentucky, but under the new order the stock seem to have been appreciably replenished all over the state. The beaver still is found in some sections of the state and only recently a large colony was discovered in a western county, where the animals had dammed a creek.

Canton—New ordinances have been passed by council here providing for one way streets and more parking space in Canton.

An examination of the peat bog of Wisconsin has recently been made by engineers of the bureau of geology with the object of discovering their relation to coal formation.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES ASK PAY INCREASE

Clerks, Freight Handlers And Station Men Put Plea To Board.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Railway clerks, freight handlers and station employees—271,000 in number—today applied for an increase in wages.

Application for the wage increase was made before the United States railroad labor board this morning by E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

"It is becoming continually more difficult for the railway employees to maintain what has been recognized as a comfortable standard of living," Mr. Fitzgerald declared.

Mr. Fitzgerald based the claim for wage increases principally on the contention that there has been a material reduction in the purchasing power of railway wages during the past four years and that "a considerable increase" must be made to restore the former living standard of the employees.

The present average monthly wages of clerical and station forces are $85.50 as against $109.02 under the labor board decision of 1920, according to Fitzgerald.

New York, Nov. 23.—Henry Ford today closed negotiations for the purchase of approximately 30,000,000 worth of coal fields in Kentucky in order to start in the business of selling coal direct to the public—the first step in his promised fight to free the people of the lake regions from the clutches of the coal profiteers.

A transaction completed here by Chief Engineer William E. Mayo, according to reports, turned over to Ford 195,000 acres territory rich in bituminous coal. A large part of the field is already under operation.

It puts the automobile manufacturer in a particularly advantageous position to begin his battle with the coal trust and give him control of about one-fifth of the soft coal produced in United States.

In addition to the cash paid for the mine fields, Ford has made plans for the double tracking of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railroad and for the electrification of the road in order to be able to carry the product to Michigan. Ship docks at the river Rouge will accommodate barges on which the coal will be loaded and carried through the lakes.

In all, Ford plans to spend $60,000,000 to open his war on the trusts.

"IL TROVATORE" MOST POPULAR OPERA TONIGHT

at the Columbia theater, Alliance. The Metropolitan Operatic Association will present "Trovatore" the best known and by far the greatest favorite of all operas produced in a century.

To contemplate having the Miserere, Anvil Chorus, Tempest of the Court and the many other examples of Verdi's best work as shown in this opera, rendered by a cast headed by the celebrated French prima donna, Mme. Nellie Gardini and having as principal only those who have had marked success in this opera, is indeed a worth while anticipation for every music lover to indulge in. Of Mme. Gardini it may be said that she enjoys the distinction of being the best Leonora this country has heard since Lillian Nordica who was considered supreme in the role. Others in the cast are Renato Troisi, Leon Reconi, Dorothy Bott, Henri Ralff, Kathryn Gaff and John Pritchard. A superior chorus and the company's own orchestra, under the direction of the renowned French conductor Maurice Poure, complete an organization that has been hailed as the foremost now on tour.

CLEAN FOOTBALL PAYS, SAYS FLICK

High School Students Hear Speech, Prepare For Final Game.

E. L. Flick, cashier of the Farmers National bank, in an enthusiastic speech to the High school students Thursday morning, explained the value of football to the players in their school and life work.

"Clean football," he said, "is part of your education. To learn to fight fairly in your football games prepares you for your life's work as nothing else can."

Flick assured the students that the business men were backing the team to the fullest extent. "They have got into the spirit of your school and intend to back you in all your efforts," he said. He urged the students to attend the games and impressed upon them the need and value of clean cheering.

Principal C. M. Rohrabach then announced that every player except Entriken would be able to play Saturday, when Salem meets Uhrichsville at Reilly field. This gives Salem a strong eleven, with a half dozen good substitutes. This will be the last game of the season.

Portable Playhouses.

Portable playhouses are a very interesting feature of the Hartford (Conn.) playgrounds. They have red canvas roofs and wire netting walls, and each is furnished with a small wooden table, four chairs and a set of wooden blocks. So light are these houses that they can be picked up and carried about to different parts of the parks and arranged in different ways—in a circle, in rows as if facing the village street or as country places with spacious yards. In these Lilliputian villages children of the playhouse age never tire of acting out every phase of community life—playing store and bank, going to church, going to the theater and just keeping house.

ALUMN OF STATE TO BLUNTED BY RADO ON DEC. 8

Columbus, Nov. 23.—Alumni for 700 miles round will be recharged by radio with Ohio State university spirit direct from the undergraduate general station on the campus on the evening of Dec. 8.

The occasion is Ohio State day, a tradition a decade, observed by 96 simultaneous meetings of Ohio State graduates from California to New York last year.

The goal set by Alumni Secretary J. L. Morrill for this year is 100 simultaneous meetings. Meetings are expected in every county in Ohio. Preparations for meetings have already been made in 43 Ohio centers.

"Wherever two or more Ohio States reside within making distance of one another, we expect them to form a link in the nationwide chain of meetings that make Ohio State day the tradition it is," declared J. L. Morrill, alumni secretary.

Broadcasting of music and speeches from the 500-watt university radio station, WEA, will enable alumni gathered in every county in Ohio and in principal cities to listen to messages from Dr. W. O. Thompson, president of Ohio State university, Dr. V. L. Wilce, football director, Captain Lida A. Pixley of the 1922 football team, the captain-elect for 1923 who will be chosen before Dec. 8 and Alumni secretary, J. L. Morrill.

Music by the Ohio State band, 1st Mass. Men's Musical Comedy organization, the Men's and Girls' Glee Club quartets will be broadcasted.

TIGER'S SPEECHES STIR RESENTMENT OF U. S. SENATORS

Accusation That America
Left France In Lurch
Arouses Storm.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The bold accusation by Georges Clemenceau in the second speech of his American tour that "America left France in the lurch" after the armistice aroused a renewed storm of resentment today in senatorial circles.

Senators without regard to party expressed the opinion either publicly or privately that it is "poor taste" to say the least for the militant old Tiger to come to this country as its guest, and then before the glamour of his welcome has worn off accuse America of having faith toward Europe.

It appeared probable today that Clemenceau's remarks have let him in verbal dressing down on the floor of the senate. The "resentment" of Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho and other members of the old irreconcilable group in the senate, is seen and the Tiger's second speech only added fuel to the fire.

"Insolent" and "impudent" were some of the terms applied to Clemenceau's remarks by senators of the old irreconcilable group.

Clemenceau's accusation of America, leaving France "in the lurch" was attributed by senators today not to America's failure to join the league of nations, but to the senate's failure to ratify the tri-partite treaty which pledged America and Great Britain to defend France's frontiers in the future.

KING EXPRESSES HIS CONCERN OVER BRITISH PROBLEMS

London, Nov. 23.—With Westminster surrounded by a heavy cordon of police to prevent demonstrations by the unemployed, King George opened the deliberative session of parliament today with a speech in which he expressed "deep concern" over problems facing the country.

The king began by saying that parliament had been summoned to enact legislation which is necessary to give aid to the Irish Free State constitution. He added that the questions of employment and state expense "concerned to give him deep concern."

"Ameliorative measures prepared by my late government are being examined afresh and you will be assured to make provision for their continuance and extension," said King George. "You will be asked also to guarantee a loan, in accordance with the league of nations' scheme, for the restoration of Austria."

"Negotiations for settlement of the difficulties in the Near East are proceeding. And it is my hope that at the end of the conference at Lausanne the efforts of my ministers, acting in whole-hearted cooperation with the representatives of our allies, may result in the re-establishment of peace and the restoration of security for the inhabitants in those regions, which have recently been the scene of so much suffering."

These bonds will cease to bear interest after Dec. 15 and holders of such bonds are urged by bank officials to have them redeemed before that time.

Registered bonds should be surrendered immediately in order that payment may be made Dec. 15 as it is necessary that these bonds be forwarded to the treasury department for payment.

These matters can be handled through Salem banks, it was stated.

SHOOTING RESULT OF DIVORCE PLAN

Cleveland, Nov. 23.—Gordon Riggs, 32, is dead at the city morgue and his wife, Mrs. Natalie Riggs, 30, is at St. Luke's hospital today seriously wounded but with a chance for life the result of meeting last night to discuss a suit for divorce filed by the wife, in which Riggs shot her and then inflicted wounds upon himself which caused his death.

The attempted murder and suicide occurred on the steps of the Mittelberger hotel, 4008 Prospect ave., where Mrs. Riggs had been living with her 13-year old son, Gordon Riggs, Jr., following her separation from her husband.

Riggs last night, according to police, telephoned his wife to meet him to discuss final terms of their separation. She agreed and the tryst was arranged on the steps of her hotel. When she stepped from the building, Riggs opened fire. Four shots struck her, two piercing her lungs, while the others inflicted flesh wounds on her arm.

Patrolman Albert Harbig, seeing the flashes of the shots, rushed to the scene and Riggs fired wildly at him, then turned the gun on himself inflicting a wound in the temple from which he died four hours later.

OHIO CONSUMERS HIT BY FUEL ACT

Operators Say Measure Boosted the Price of Coal.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET AGAIN

Returns to Columbus Dec. 30, When
It Will Formally Adjourn. Sine Die.
Attempt to Be Made in Congress to Raise Funds for Soldier Bonus by a Tax on Wine and Beer—Court Ruling Aids Food Commission.

Columbus, Nov. 23.—That the consumer of coal in Ohio is the goat as the result of the appointment of a fuel administrator is the contention of Toledo coal operators and dealers, now fighting in the federal court at Toledo in an effort to have the Ohio fuel bill knocked out.

Thomas H. Tracy, one of the attorneys for the operators, asserted that Ohio consumers are paying from $2 to $3 more for coal than they would have been compelled to pay had the fuel bill never been passed. In addition to this, he said, the prices fixed by the federal-state administrators, which he says conflict, have taken Ohio out of the market for Ohio mined coal and compelled consumers here to depend on coal mined outside the state.

He declared the fuel bill is full of threats and should be knocked out, because it has failed signally in accomplishing the purpose for which it was framed, namely, to obtain coal for Ohio consumers at a lower price than was being demanded by operators.

"The legislature at a special session passed the fuel administration bill, which was immediately put into effect by the appointment of Clarence J. Neal as administrator. Price of coal in Ohio was fixed at $3.75 a ton for run of mine and for preferred coal and addition of 25 cents was allowed.
Federal Administrator Spens, Oct. 22, fixed the price of coal to be sold and shipped in interstate commerce at 75 cents a ton higher than the price set by the state administrator," Tracy said, and asserted this conditions has taken Ohio entirely out of the market for Ohio mined coal, because Ohio operators can ship it out of the state at a higher price.

While it is true the election is over and people of Ohio thought they were to have a rest for awhile, with nothing to worry them except the appointments of Governor Donahey, they have another guess coming, for the legislature is coming back.

When Governor Davis became peevish with the legislature two years ago, and after failing to induce the members to go home, he took the bull by the horns and adjourned both houses, which, next to locking the doors of the house and senate chambers, was the best way to get rid of them, he put a time limit on their suspension.

He could not under the law adjourn
the body for its full term, so he ordered them to stay at home until Dec.
30, and now the assembly must come back to Columbus in order to formally adjourn and go home with its work well and nobly done. Since it will have but one day before the term expires and can not do anything, regardless of the fact that many of its members have been elected to serve another term, the people of the state can dismiss the session from their minds, as it will simply be a case of the king marching up the hill and then marching down again.

However, it has its advantages to the old members of both houses who are returned for another session.
Caucuses of both parties must be held before the assembly starts on its 1923 term in order to pick speakers, committees, clerks, etc., and ordinarily the trip to the caucuses would have to be borne by the members individually. With the necessity of coming back to adjourn facing them, however,
they can kill two birds with one stone, for the state must allow them their mileage for coming back to adjourn, and while they are here they can hold their caucuses and have their way paid to and from their homes.

While the assembly was twice called back to Columbus in special session, once to pass legislation providing funds to make up the deficit in the soldier bonus appropriation and once to pass the fuel administration law, no one thought of adjourning, and the scolds now are congratulating themselves on their bull-headedness in refusing to adjourn before the governor, for the first time in the history of the state, took the matter into his own hands and sent them home.

Rumor has it that an attempt will be made on the part of the legislature to amend the reorganization bill, to take from the directors of departments the power to name the subordinate employees. The directors being appointed by the governor, he might naturally be expected to appoint Democrats under the next administration, and a Republican legislature might just as naturally be expected to hold over Republicans.

However, it is not likely the matter will be taken up at the adjournment session, as the legislature still is lopsidedly Republican, and as many of the heads of departments hold over for some time, the matter might well be permitted to wait until the regular session of the general assembly.

That a spirited fight will come up in the Republican caucus is evidenced by the number of candidates for speaker of the house that have sprung up within the last week.

H. H. Griswold of Geauga county, Robert C. Dunn of Wood county and Allen C. McDonald of Dayton are said to be active candidates for the position, and H. T. Gordon of Logan county, A. C. Robinson of Lawrence, Homer Ramey of Toledo and C. H. Freeman of Hardin county, while not actively campaigning for the job, are said to be in a receptive mood and would not refuse the honor if it were thrust upon them.

That the Anti-Saloon league took time by the forelock when it defeated in Ohio a constitutional amendment permitting the sale of light wine and beer is evidenced by an attempt now being made in Washington to raise funds for a soldier bonus by a tax on wine and beer.

The bill advocated by Representative Hill of Maryland, Republican, would place a tax of 20 cents a gallon on 2.75 per cent beer and cider, and would, of course, legalize the sale of such beverages.

Ohio beer and wine drinkers, however, can get little comfort from the provision, however, as the sale of such beverages are prohibited in Ohio.
Whether or not the friends of the beer and wine amendment had some prior information on the plan of Representative Hill to introduce such a bill is not known, but it is not unlikely that they smelled some such mouse, for they could have hoped for little gain in passing such an amendment as long as the federal constitution prohibited the sale.

Regardless of the action of congress Ohio will be out in the cold as far as beer and wine are concerned, but the Massachusetts, Illinois and other states that passed laws legalizing the sale of such beverages may enjoy their drinks, while Ohio remains a desert.

The passage of such an act, however, doubtless would again throw Ohio into the throes of a wet and dry fight next election, for the friends of wine and beer would not overlook such a good bet as trying to bring back such beverages, when they have such an appealing argument as paying the soldier bonus from the tax.

They have contended from the start that the drys took advantage of the soldiers by putting across the prohibition law while the soldiers were in France, and argue that it never could have been put across had the soldiers been home to vote, despite the fact that the beer and wine amendment lost by a great majority at the last election when the soldiers were home.

Charles Darlington, former state commander of the legion, a few days ago, asserted the American Legion would fight any measure to give the soldier a bonus if the money had to be raised by such a tax, but many legionnaires of Ohio are at variance with the former commander on that score, and are willing to accept a bonus regardless of where the money comes from, while of course many are more anxious to get back their beer than they are to get a bonus, so that it is unlikely the legion can be depended on to put any strong organized opposition to such a bill.

What effect will the resigning of Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan have on the Ohio campaign in 1924? Is the question Ohio politicians now are asking themselves and each other.

The fact that Senator Pomerene, who led the fight against the seating of Newberry, was unmercifully walloped at the last election, even though he tried to make the seating of Newberry an issue, is taken by Republicans as an indication that Ohio voters are not particularly interested in just who represents Michigan, or just how he gets there.

Democrats, on the other hand, say Pomerene had so many knives out after his side because of other things he had done or failed to do, that his fight against Newberry was forgotten, and that the people of Ohio will remember the seating of Newberry
when they come to vote again, particularly since he has resigned, which, they assert, is a show of weakness
and a confession of guilt.

Another step toward strengthening the authority of the state dairy and food commission in Ohio was taken when the supreme court upheld the commission in its order to an ice cream manufacturing concern in Coshocton to cease to manufacture ice cream in the basement of its establishment, on the ground the place was poorly ventilated and detrimental to the health of employees and consumers of their product.

The commission was not slow to take advantage of the decision, and an order was issued ordering the abolishment of all such plants operated in poorly ventilated basements.
The order will effect about 25 per cent of the ice cream manufacturers of the state, it is said, and will compel them to either cease operations entirely or move their equipment to rooms, the ventilation and lighting of which meet with the approval of the state dairy and food commission.

FIND FAMILY OF 6 DEAD, POISON HINT

Lancaster, Nov. 23.—Authorities in resolving the mysterious deaths of vine Henderson, his wife and their small children, whose bodies were found scattered about their home,
have their first tangible clue.

Dr. R. W. Mondbank, a local physician, announced that Henderson had consulted with him last Friday and several times since over a mysterious malady which had affected members of his family, and had told him that he feared he was given poison. Henderson, who was employed as a stationary engineer in the Pennsylvania airline shops here where the shop-men's strike still is unsettled, said he believed he was being poisoned by those who resented his accepting employment at the shops. Dr. Mondbank aid. Mr. Henderson gave him the name of a man he suspected, the physician declared, and this was turned over to the authorities.

VICTIM OF PRACTICAL JOKE

Rather Mean Trick, Credited to Member of Washington Club, Played on Business Man.

They are telling a story around the Racquet club of a practical joke played upon an out-of-town visitor who is most punctilious in the manner in which he draws all the contracts for the company of which he is president. It appears that a short time ago he came to Washington prepared to close a deal involving a small amount of money. When the papers were finally typed he scanned them carefully, and when about to affix his signature he was asked by one of the other parties of the deal to use his fountain pen, as he wanted to keep it as a souvenir of the occasion. Rather appreciating the compliment, he did so, and that night entrained for Boston. A day or two after his arrival home he had occasion to look up the contract, and found, to his dismay, that there were no signatures to the agreement. His Washington friends had simply made him use a fountain pen that was filled with disappearing ink. When the hoax was explained to him by wire he sent back the following message: "Returning with my own ink. The dinner is on me."—Washington Star.

Salem's Red Cross Is Mother To 235 Disabled Soldiers

The American Red Cross has been chartered by congress to relieve and prevent suffering in peace and in war at home and abroad.

It supplements government service by meeting the particular need of the individual ex-service man. This work cannot go on unless you support it with your membership. After four years of peace we still have 25,000 disabled ex-service men in hospitals. The year ending Nov. 1, 1922 lem Red Cross chapter gave services to 235 ex-service men with an expenditure of many a dollar.

The greatest mother is at the service of all mankind. In Salem she gave aid to 130 families and nursing service to 237 during the past year. By giving an American dollar to join the American Red Cross helps you to help others who are hurt and who need relief. Pay your dollar without delay.

COAST PROTECTION AIM OF MANEUVERS

ARMY AIR SERVICE AND COAST
ARTILLERY CORPS GETTING VALUABLE PRACTICE.

TAKING NO CHANCE ON WAR

Fliers and Gunners Are Receiving Training on Locating Attacking Foreign Fleet and on Instantly Getting the Exact Range.

Washington.—Joint maneuvers of the army air service and the coast artillery corps have been in progress for some time. The reason for the maneuvers is to give to these two arms of the service training in what may one day be their joint work of preventing the landing of an enemy on the coast of the United States.

A big war having virtually just closed and with the whole world talking of means for lasting peace, it may seem strange to some persons that such maneuvers as these are in progress, but since the days that the Israelites fought the Philistines, and even before that, wars have come even when peace was believed to be certain to rule in the future. Therefore the United States today is taking no chance.

Neither the army or the navy has much money to spend for drilling purposes of any kind, but such money as there is, is being used to what the service men believe to be the best purpose. Quoting from an explanation of the maneuvers, the following is what they are intended to do:

"These experiments are expected to determine the suitability of airships, captive balloons and airplanes in observation of fire; ranges and conditions which make air observation preferable to ground observations; the number of airplanes which can be used simultaneously to observe and report deviations in the field of fire and extent of interference to radio telephone and telegraphic messages caused by neighboring radio communications in operation; the best method of observing and reporting deviations from airship and airplanes; the best method of observing and reporting deviations as observed from ground stations and ranges and conditions at which vertical spotting from captive balloons near the battery firing is more satisfactory than spotting from ground stations."

All to Protect Our Coast.
Now all this seems to be rather severely technical, but what is to be done largely concerns itself with making it as near certain as possible that in case the coast of this country ever shall be attacked by a foreign fleet, our airplanes may be able quickly not only to locate approaching warships, but instantly to notify the land batteries of the exact range.

All over the world the science of aviation today is advancing rapidly. In England they have just been holding what was called gliding tests. Airplanes without any engines take to the air, and by clever manipulation some of the operators have managed to stay in the air after the manner of a bird for so long a time as two hours. It is, therefore, within the range of possibilities that one day men will be able to do that which he started out to do years ago—fly like a bird.

It is not believed in Washington that even with the perfection of gliding machines the motor-operated airplane ever will be superseded, because the machine with a motor in it can make three times an express train speed, but it is believed that flying, real flying, one day will be possible. Of course, flying suggests "flapping of wings." What man really is accomplishing today to a minor degree is "soaring." The present day glider stays up in the air somewhat after the manner of a buzzard or a hawk. It is true that hawks and buzzards flap their wings, but they make considerable distances at times without any appreciable wing movement.

Flying by No Means Safe Yet.
Army aviators say that it is something of a relief to be able to go up into the air without the virtual certainty that somebody is going to take pot shots at them from anti-air guns, and without also the almost certain knowledge that an enemy aviator is to come at them with his Fokker and his machine gun. There are dangers enough, however, today, as the services know, in air navigation. The death lists of the services still are heavy, and yet neither the army nor the navy is having the slightest difficulty in getting men willing to take the air training with the knowledge that when they start at real work they are running more risks of injury and death than those encountered by men in any other profession of life.

Marksmanship from the air has improved since the early war days. The marksmanship referred to here is that for which objects on the ground furnish a target. When the war began in 1914 aviators were unable to hit any ground mark that they aimed at with their explosive shells. The speed with which they flew and some other conditions made accuracy almost impossible. As the war progressed marksmanship from the air improved, but it is a long way today from being anywhere near accurate.

Christmas Caroling Custom Revived By 661 Cities

So thoroughly established now in this country is the venerable custom of outdoor Christmas caroling that to date it has been incorporated as a feature of the public Yuletide celebrations in no less than 661 cities and towns. The list of these is given in an illuminating survey on the spread of the movement made by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, which is co-operating with churches, schools, music teachers, club leaders and others organizing groups of carolers among the young people of the community and rehearsing them in the beautiful melodies. According to the bureau's records, gathered through newspaper clippings from all parts of the country, 339 cities had the caroling in 1920, as compared with 661 in December last, so that at the present rate of growth the list should reach at least 1,000 this year. Speaking of the modest beginnings of the movement in America the survey says:

"Ten years ago outdoor Christmas Eve carolling, especially by itinerant groups through the streets of town and village, was almost unknown in this country. The beautiful old custom that once had been universal in England had all but died."

"The widespread adoption of the Community Christmas tree did much to bring the carols to public attention again. Yet the singing of the charming old yuletide songs for the public benefit was all too infrequent and the general absence of carol waits the traveling bands of carol ers in their picturesque red cambric capes, was particularly regrettable. The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music is interested in extending more widely the influence and utilization of music among the American people, and it saw in the Christmas caroling one of the most inspiring uses of song, as a satisfaction to the singer, a joy to the community, and a means of expressing the Christmas spirit. In 1917, therefore, shortly after its own inception, the bureau began working actively for the country-wide expansion of the custom.

The latest craze among some fashionable women in London is to dye cats so that they match a favorite costume or the furniture.

HOMES ARE SCARCE IN CAPITAL CITY

MANY CONGRESSMEN FEARED TO RENEW THEIR LEASES AND SCRAMBLE WILL RESULT.

MUCH BUILDING IS GOING ON

Numerous Apartment Houses Are Being Constructed and Fill Up Rapidly, for the Lure of Washington Draws Large Population.

Washington.—When the hosts begin to gather for the winter in Washington there will be a scramble for hibernating quarters.

In a way this is an uncertain year in the capital of the country. Many members of congress, fearing their terms of office would expire for good next March, did not dare to lease homes for the year beginning October 1, 1932, and ending October 1, 1933, for such is the rental term in Washington.

Those who are re-elected, and the new members who are chosen, are going to have a time of it to find places to live. The defeated ones who will stay here only until next March can make shift with hotel and boarding house accommodations, but those whose lease of legislative life is extended want homes, temporary homes at any rate, and homes are scarce.

Washington has grown and grown and grown. There still is a large contingent of war workers here who either have managed to find after-the-war jobs or who, held by the lure of the capital, still are looking for jobs while they are living on what they managed to lay up during the days that were. Washington is building and building and building. Apartment houses are going up everywhere. Most of them look like the tenement houses of old-time days in New York when Five Points, Mackerelville and some other places were in their glory.

Fine Place to Live In, Anyway.

However, what difference does it make? Washington is a beautiful city and to live here is worth while, even if the living quarters are no bigger and precious little more desirable than that cage of history in which Louis XI of France locked up Cardinal Baluc, a cage in which it was impossible to lie down and impossible to stand up. Baluc managed to live in his cage for 11 years, so why is it not possible for a man who can get outdoors every day to live in a similar cage in this wonderful city?

The wealthy of the land are beginning to come to town for the winter. The rich leisurely class, or a considerable part of it, likes Washington as a winter residence. These wealthy ones can buy houses or build them according to their caprices. Therefore they have plenty of room to entertain and to live luxuriously by themselves when they are not entertaining. Washington's avenues are broad, its trees are commandingly beautiful; its flower beds are plentiful; and taking it all in all, the city's setting is worthy, and so why should not the wealthy come here, even if they are compelled at times to put up with the contaminating company of the small flat dweller and the man who wishes he had a small flat to live in?

Washington is given to the social life. Ordinarily the White House is the center of attraction so far as the greater events are concerned, but this year, unhappily, there will be little entertaining at the great mansions because Mrs. Harding has been seriously ill and during the period of her convalescence she must refrain from the more strenuous duties of hostess.

Washington Clubs Interesting.

The clubs of Washington offer places of refuge for the comparatively few bachelor or widower members of congress who are fortunate enough to have membership in one or the other of the organizations, or who manage to secure temporary membership while in office. Some men, however, do not like the club life, especially when the club in which they are to live is not in the home town. But Washington clubs for the most part are interesting places for any man to live in, because the membership of each one of them is in considerable part composed of men who have done things in life, whether in science, in literature, or in one or the other of the armed services of their country.

While Washington has grown and grown and grown, as has been said, it is still free from factories. The only businesses in Washington are the government businesses and what one might call the businesses of the professions and, of course, the businesses of selling goods for the immediate consumption of the populace. The capital of the United States is perhaps the only city in the world of equal size in which no factory is located. It seems to be the intention of the government and of the residents of this place to keep factories away.

The congressional session soon will be on again. Washington always is bustling about. There is speculation as early as to the chances that something will happen to induce President Harding to call house and senate together again in extraordinary session next day in early March next year. The Sixty-seventh congress dies in death.

Persons who want anything know that The News is the Want Medium in this territory. So read it.

This Nurse Says Nerv-Worth Is Wonderful

Such a statement from a professional nurse as the following needs no explanation. It simply proves our statement that there is no other remedy for stomach troubles and bowel complaints that will give such quick, positive, healthy relief as this splendid family remedy. Mrs. Thorn tells us that she suffered so severely from stomach trouble and torpid bowels that she had fainting spells, sleepless nights, nervous exhaustion, bloating and sour stomach to an extreme degree and could find no relief either through physicians or other remedies until she used Nerv-Worth; but before she had taken up the first bottle she was a great deal better and rapidly improved with its use until her former rugged health was fully restored.

You can get this famous remedy at almost any drug store at one dollar a bottle. It is always on sale in this city at the Bennett and Treat drug stores and each druggist is authorized to give the money back if the results from the first bottle are not encouraging and satisfactory. It is a splendid remedy for delicate women or sickly children because of its pleasant taste and its mild but always efficient action.

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old trouble persists, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

TARIFF CHANGES MAY BE DECREED

COMMISSION IS READY TO BEGIN INQUIRIES ON REQUESTS FOR ALTERATIONS.

POWER RESTS IN PRESIDENT

He Will Raise or Lower the Duties as the Experts Advise After Investigation—Several Petitions Already Have Been Received.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—The tariff commission is just about to get down to its work. It is pretty generally known that the President is contemplating, through the tariff commission after inquiry, the reduction for some duties which he thinks are too high. It is not at all beside the mark to say that it is possible the thoughts of the President on this subject may be the thoughts of a majority of his party in congress.

However, the congress which passed the tariff bill put in it a provision under which the President will act through the tariff commission in the work of raising or lowering schedules, as it may be found that the business of the country demands. It is a new thing which is to be tried out. The lawmakers fixed rates and then fixed a means by which after inquiry the rates could be changed.

It is not known definitely yet just how far the President, working through the tariff commission, will go in the matter of changing some of the schedules. There are both Democrats and Republicans here who say he will have trouble on his hands if he attempts to change any of the duties which his party has enacted into law.

Confronting this, there are plenty of high tariff Republicans in congress who are ready to say they are willing to trust the matter entirely in the hands of the President and to rest on the judgment of the inquiries of the tariff commission.

Already several petitions have been received by the tariff commission in which downward revision is requested on some of the schedules. Also some requests have been made for increases in some schedules. It is certain the commission will have work enough on its hands.

Not a Real Party Issue.

There is unquestionably in the Republican party an element which hopes that the President working through the commission will do something to lower some of the present tariff rates. There also unquestionably is another element in the party which does not believe that any tariff rate can be too high. There are some few high protection Democrats in congress, notwithstanding the fact that the party as a party is for lower rates on most of the things which today are "high in the customs."

The tariff in recent years has become less and less of a real party issue in one sense, because certain manufacturing interests in strong Democratic strongholds have demanded high rates of duty, while certain agricultural interests in Republican strongholds have demanded lower rates on a good many articles. As a whole, however, the Republican party is the champion of high tariff, and the Democratic party the champion of a low tariff.

Inquiries Will Take Time.

If the public, or any part of it, shall expect immediate decision on the part of the tariff commission as to an increase in this rate or a decrease in that one, there will be disappointment. The commission will act only after a thorough investigation, and history shows that investigations into the rights and the wrongs of tariff matters as they affect certain industries are long drawn out affairs. The finance committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house before they sanction tariff bills hold extended sessions. This is as true in Republican tariff making as it is in Democratic tariff making.

So it is that if the worst schedules or the lumber schedules or any other of the schedules are to be given consideration by the commission with a view to a change in rates, there must be hearings, investigations, and even field work before a decision in any particular case can be reached. This will take time, but the promise is that the things will be done as expeditiously as possible.

It has been said "the tariff we have always with us." This saying, of course, had reference to the fact that every time there is a change of administration a new tariff bill must be made. It seems likely that the saying will have double force because with a tariff commission at work the tariff in some form or another now is likely to be before the country in season and out.

Matter of Principle.

Admiral Sims delights to recount the story of the new recruit to the naval medical corps. They had been repairing one of the battleships and a worker who was injured had been brought into the hospital ward for emergency treatment.

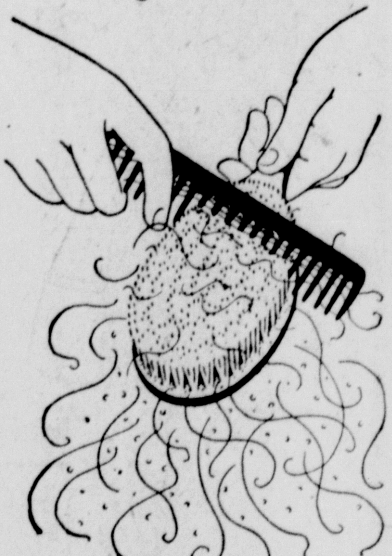

He had to wait a few minutes for the recently recruited medic, who, on entering, explained to his superior: "I've been working on the dry-dock, sir."

"Kill him, if you get a chance," cried the patient. "I always did hate them prohibitionists."
